Towards this, the ministry is implementing various schemes and programmes for creating a necessary ecosystem for skill development and entrepreneurship promotion through short-term and long-term skill trainings. Skill development and entrepreneurial policies have been developed within the context of India's unique demographic profile and nature of workforce. India is home to the second largest population in the world, with over 50% of India's population below the age of 25. As per available data, by 2030, the country will have the world's youngest and largest workforce, exceeding one billion. With almost 80% of the workforce informally employed, it is important to improve employment opportunities through targeted skilling and employment generation initiatives.
